

* On Learning to Be— Variously *
www.mytho-logos.net

Table of Contents for:

Learning to Be—Variously On Education, Individuality, and Schooling the Self In Pluralistic Egalitarian Culture

* * * * *

Introduction Educating Individuality: Examining Educational Efforts In Relation to Individualistic, Socially Egalitarian Cultural Values

Framing a Pervasive and Complex yet Broadly Accessible Reflection Upon Education of Selfhood

The Cultural Context and Historical Moment for this Educational Reflection

Specifying Some Broad Terms and Concepts

The Notion of Analysis and Its Reasonably Reflective Uses

Posing A Primary Reciprocity of Self Complexity and Social Structures in Relation to Egalitarian Pluralism

Culture and Society as Intention and Actuality

Distinguishing the Whats and Hows of Education from the Whys

Educating as Leading ‘Out,’ ‘Toward,’ and ‘Inward’

Learning as Change in Personal Awareness, Understanding, or Capacity

Schooling as Execution of Educational Intentions and Structural Curriculum for Socialized Learning

Schooling as Activity and School as Place of Education

Schooling as Teaching and Instructing

Pedagogy and Teaching as Intention and Actuality

Understanding as Reductively Conclusive and Non-Reductively Diversifying

Education and Schooling as Extensions of Power

An Honest Education as Various Educations

A Historical Perspective on the ‘Genealogy of Schooling.’

The Who of Education: Constituting the Self to be Schooled into Pluralistic, Egalitarian Society

Personal Identity in the Socio-cultural Context of Egalitarian Pluralism

Discerning Personal and Individual Identities in Pluralistic Society

Educating the Non-conformity of Individuals with/in the Conformity of Society

Individuality as Personal Particularity: Diversifications of Personality and Character

Concepts of Individuality as a Basis for Evaluation of Education and Schooling

Chapter 1

The “I” That Needs to Learn How to Be It’s Complex Self, Among Others, In The World:

Positioning Self-Knowing among Notions of Personal, Individual, and Collective Identities

Posing the “I” of Egalitarian Collectivity

General Identities of the Self: Various Constitutions of Persons and Their Individuality

Of Physiological and Mental Selfhood

Of Social, Personal, and Individual Identities

Of Categorical Selves.

The Contextual Self

The Self as a Constellation of Individually Identified Identities Ordered by Contextual Emphasis and Habituation

Of Centered and De-Centered Selves

The Hierarchical Self

The In-divisible Self of the Indivisible Political Person

Individual and Collective Selfhood: The Inherent Opposition and Interdependence of Personal and Social Selves.

Person as Part and A/part From Collective Society.

Collective Conformity and Its Purposes in Co-operative Society.

The Self Reflections of Personal and Collective Identity

Of Orthodoxical and Heterodoxical Selves.

Directional Dynamics of Self-Structure Models and Their Basis in Social Structures

Selfhood as Expression of Political Orders

The Evolutionary Self of Radically Adaptive Human Consciousness

The Inherent Dynamism of Contrast and Disparity in Human Intelligence and Character

A Dialectic of Personal and Collective Disparities Enabling Socio-Cultural Variation

The Role of Cognitive Compartmentalization in Maintaining Complex Consciousness and Its Necessary Conflicts as an Adaptive Capacity

The Complex Self of Physiological Brain Science: Variations in the Neuronal Basis of Personal Cognitive Functioning

The Self of Distinct Brain Functions and Their Variable Interactivity

The Intentional and Autonomic Self of Cognitive Processing
Particularity of Identity as Individually Differentiated Neuronal Pathway Development
Self-Differentiation in the Developmental Sequences of Brain Aspects and Cognitive Functions
Self-Differentiation in the Developmental Sequences of Brain Aspects and Cognitive Functions
The Two-Sided Self of the Bicameral Brain/Mind

The Self as Psychologically Conceived: Theoretical Logics for a Complex Singularity of Mental Selfhood.

Versions of Psychic Structure and Dynamics in ‘An Individual’
The Complex Self of Modernist Psychology—or, the Psychology of the Hidden Psychical Elements and Hierarchical Struggles for Self Definition: Intra- and Inter-Personal Egoic
Struggles with/in Complex Selfhood to Establish Identity in Social Contexts
Inadequate Self-Representation and the Return of the Repressed
Pathologizing the Self of Modernity: Personality Dis-Ordering as Illness and Self-Expression
Of Persons that Do Not Know Their Own Psychic Individuality and Collective Endeavors to Know the World
Of Self Reflexive, Self Reflective, and Selfless Selves in Self<>Self Relations
The Resistance of Habitually Reflexive Identity to More Complex Self-Knowing
The Psychology of Compensation
Projective Psychology and the Self Seeking Itself in Others
Psychological Views on Human Development and Considerations for Facilitating Complex
Self Identity

Self Expression as Structured by Expressive Conventions of Society and Culture

Self-Knowing and Self Expression
Artistic Representation and Differentiation of Self, Other, and World Self Knowing within the Confinements of Philosophic and Scientific Realities: Self as Object and Subject

Archaic, Modernist, and Postmodernist Characterizations of Individual Status

Historical Contextings of Relations Between Persons, Social Collectives, and World(s)
Theologies, Mythologies, and Cosmologies of Selfhood
Directional Dynamics of Self-Structure Models
The Tenacity of Egoic Structure in Systematic ‘Organizational Entities’

The Inherent Inequality of Individuals Relative to Egalitarian Concepts of the Equality of Persons

Accommodating Egalitarian Ideals with Individual Differentiation and Social Inequities
An Ideal of Equality of Un-equal Individuals as Equally Individualized

Chapter 2

Framing Learning Variously:

Posing Modes and Contexts for Learning that Facilitate Complex, Individualized Self<>Self and Self<>Other Relations

Of Persons and Their Psycho-somatic Sense Abilities that Enable Knowing
Of Personal Intellect and Individualized Intelligences.

Varieties of Knowing and a Variable Complex of ‘Sense Abilities’

Acculturated Verses Individualized Sense Abilities

Developmental Contexts for Sense Ability Enhancement: Learning to Learn Variously Relative to Life Stages or Self-status

Distinguishing Educational Content and Methodological Development in Posing Complex Dynamics for Educational Learning, Teaching, and Instructing

Instrumental Instructing and Hermeneutical Teaching

Narrative and Syntax in Knowing the Differences of Knowledge

Enhancing Modes of Knowing by Differentiating Dynamics of Understanding

Archetypalities of Knowing and Knowledge

Performatively Reactive and Entrepreneurially Creative Intellect

Negative and Positive Dynamics of Learning: The Need for Error

Learning With/In the Inevitable Indoctrinations of Education

Distinguishing Educations

Situational and Abstract Learning Contexts

Formal and Informal Contexts for Learning and Teaching

Evaluating Educational Efforts To Context Learning Variously with/in Egalitarian Culture

Distinguishing Skill Learning and Analytically Reflective Development

Content, Performance, and Purpose: Evaluating the Whats, Hows, and Whys of Teaching and Learning

Chapter 3

Learning The Old Ways

Archaic Cultural Contextings of Education for Becoming Oneself, among Others, in the World.

Educational Context as Culture and Environment: Socio-environmentally Embedded Learning

Psycho-somatic Learning

Cultural Narratives and the Archaic ‘Why’ for Educating: Mythical Meaning and Motive for Being and Doing

Initiation as Education in Abstraction from Ordinary Context

Life-Stage Associated Learning

Of Oral and Literary Mentalities

Orality, Dialogue, and Subtle Precisions of Expression

Historical References for the Contemporary Formalization of Education

Precedents for Specialization, Standardization, and Abstract Formalization of Learning Contexts

Chapter 4
On The Way(s) to Learning Modernity:
Preludes to Modernist Self Configuration, Social Structure, and Intellectual Method in the Contest between Reason and Idealism

Differentiations of Individual Autonomy and Collective Continuity in a World of Unseen Forces

The Contrast between Knowing and Knowledge in Western History

Historical Overview of Pre-modern Educational Thought and Schooling in Western Societies

Contexting Ideals of Education and Schooling within Existing Societal Structures

High and Low Culture: The Subversive Interplay of Anti-Traditionalist Abstraction in Dominant Classes and the Egalitarian Ethics of Subordinate Classes in Evolving Modernist Mentality.

Some Origins for Western Intellectual Method and Individualistic Thought in Ancient Contexts

Ancient Greek Differentiation of Intellect from Cultural Belief, Societal Standards, and Objective Reality as Rationally Abstracted Critique

The Pragmatizing of Logic: Defining Knowing as the Rationale of Linear Causation and Reasoning as an Instrument of Manipulation

Socratic, Platonic and Aristotelian Models for Knowing and Knowledge: Of Reason and the Potency of Binary Oppositions

A Contrast between Method of Knowing and Purpose of Knowledge: Hiddenness of Truth and Absolute Knowledge

Emphasizing ‘How’ over ‘Why’: The ‘Invention’ of Philosophy, History, Natural Sciences, and Mathematics as Secular Practices of Explanation

Ancient Greek Thought, Hebraic Ethics, and Western Emphasis on Individual Autonomy

Problematizing Relations between Persons and Society: Rationalizing Ethical Morality and Social Hierarchy

Rational Consistency and the Problem of the Logic of God: Of Instrumental Reason and Mythical Logic

A Conjunction of Greek Rationalism, Idealistic Dualism, and Christian Literalism in the Oppositional Reality of Western Scientific Materialism

Seeking the Truth and an Anxious Quest for Perfection in Western Imaginations

Dilemmas of Personal Choice in the Quest for Truth, Ethical Conduct, and Reasonable Accuracy

Greek Philosophy, Christian Religious Doctrine, and Anxiety over Complex Selfhood in Western Culture.

The ‘Culture of The Book’ that ‘Founds’ Western Mentality and Social Relations

Tending toward Modernity: Historical Nodes between Ancient Intimations and Emergence of the Individualistic Intellect in Enlightenment Rationalism

Roman Imperial Organization and the Religious Status Quo of Textual Traditionalism

Medieval Unity of Faith and Reason in Religious Society

The Renaissance Return to Classical Thought

The Reformation’s Competitive Orthodoxies and Individualist Relation to Truth

Toward a Reasonable Truth: Church Scholasticism, Humanism, and the ‘Age of Reason’

Diversifying the Culture of The Book: From Religious to Rationalist Canon of Knowledge

Enlightenment Rationalism, Secular Technological Culture and the Scientific Spirit
Competition between Religion and Reason for Faith: The Open Contest for Asserting Valid ‘Hows’ and ‘Whys’

The Economic Dynamism of Emergent Capitalism and Reorganization of Social Mentality:
Profit, Progressivism, and Personalized Initiative

Toward the New: Renouncing Tradition in Favor of Progressive, Pragmatic Rationalism and Instrumental Reason

Emergence of Collective Identity and Humanist Purpose in the Nation State: Person as Citizen

The Quest to Know the Logical, Factual Truth and a Burgeoning Canon of Contradictory Objective Knowledge

The Hierarchical Binary Bind of Western Monism and Its Reductive Analysis

Reductive Particularity and Its Categorical Specializations in Academic, Professional, and Technical Disciplines: the Development of Irreducible Modes of Knowing and the Pluralizing Effects of Particularity

Industrial Revolution and a Mechanistic Model of Self, Other, and World

Mechanistic Causality, Systematic Theory, and Managerial Mentality: Purpose as the Requirements of Technological and Institutional Systems

Conceptually Egalitarian Culture and Superficial Social Individualism

The Romantic Reaction to Mechanism and a Broadening of Human Sense Abilities

Mechanistic Functionalism and the Constitution of the Self of Medical Psychology

Philosophy’s Shift Toward Psychology of Perception and Mental Functions: Perspectives on Epistemology and Subjectivity Constituting Selfhood

Arriving at the Objectified Mind of Modern Science and Social Theory: Self-Alienation from Self and World in the Rationalized Separation of Subject and Object.

Chapter 5

Learning the Modern Way:

Conceptions of and Purposes for Education and Schooling in Modernist, Post-Enlightenment Western Societies

Some Historical Moments in the Origins of Universal Compulsory Public Schooling

Nationalist Policies and Centralized Standardization of Schooling

Democratic Sentiments and the Common School Movement in the United States

State Centralization and Compulsory Schooling in the United States on the Prussian Model

Reassertion of Social Hierarchy in Late Nineteenth Century Private Schooling

Corporate Values, Economic Culture, and the Systematization of Schooling

The Complete Institutionalization of Compulsory Public Schooling

Reaction Against Institutionalized Public Education in Reform Movements, Alternative
Private Schools, and the Home Schooling Movement

Formalized Education as ‘Schooling the Mind of Modernity’

The Various ‘Educations’ and Schoolings of Humanist Culture, Competitive Individualism, Institutional Nationalism, Industrialized Society, Capitalist Economy

Industrialized Schooling: Educational Factories, Systems, Managers, and Workers

Identity Bias in the Language Usage of Systematic Materialism and Idealistic Progressivism

Class and Function: Specific Schoolings in ‘The Mind of Modernity’
The Constitution of The University as ‘Higher Education’
Systematic Institutional Education and the ‘Massification’ of Students in Mega Schools
Convergence of Economic Interests and Educational Systems in Consumer Culture
Progressive Anti-traditionalism and Generational Discontinuities in Knowledge and Fashion

Other Aspects of Conflict Between Education in Service to Egalitarian Equality and Individualized Character versus Schooling as a Function of Institutional and Socio-economic Structures.

Egalitarian Democratic Society and Universal Compulsory Schooling
School as Education or as Institutional Socialization and Child Care for Working Parents
Overt and Covert Educational Strategies for Collective Conformity
The Commodification of Individuality and Education: Citizenship as Appetite Pursuit
Economic Identity and Standards of ‘Performativity’: Personal Validity in Productive/Consumptive Quantifications
Socio-economic Pragmatism and the Computerization of Intelligence
Effects of Quantitative Performativity and Economic Functionalism on Language Usage
From Humanist to Economic Legitimation of Social Purpose and State Power: The Transposition of Enlightenment Ideals into Commercial Ones
Globalization and the Transcendental Imperialism of the Transnational Consumer State

More Recent Emphasis in Educational Intent and Schooling

Educational Reform: Concerns for Independence of Personal Thought and Action versus Appetite Appeasement and Employment Serviceability
The Emergence of Dominant Emphasis on Quantitative Intelligence and Performance in Educational Assessment
Standardized Testing and Teaching to Unreflective Performance of Uniform Functions
The Progressive Rationalization of Childhood Education and Disruption of Holistic Mentality
Performative Rationalism and a Corresponding Degrading of Attention to Artistic, Philosophical, and Psychological Educations

Successful Failures and Failing Successes: The Confused Schooling of Modernity’s Repressed Self-Complexity

Facing the Illusion of Control: If Modernism as Rational Certainty Has Failed to Define Truth then How to ‘Educate’ It’s Mentality into Self-Reflective Complexity?

Chapter 6

Learning by ‘Post-Modern’ Ways:

Considerations for Educating De-centered Selves with/in a Status of Inconclusive Knowing and the Subsequent Valuation of Egalitarian Individuality

Emergence of an After-Modernist Mentality

Carrying On The Tradition of Anti-traditionalism to Its Limitless Limitation: Analytical Rationalism Deconstructs Its Definitive Selfhood into Indefinite Disseminations Modernist Anxiety about Post-Modernist Perspective: Negation or Explication?
Two Aspects of ‘Post-Modernism’: Theoretical Interpretive Perspective and Pragmatic Status
The Reality of Realities: Knowing a World that is not A ‘Self-consistent’ System

The Identity of Identities: Subjecting the “I” to The Self’s Indefinite Subjectivity
Maturation of Modernist Mentality as Post-modernists/Post-structuralist Pluralism

Of Post-modernist Persons and Politics

Modernist Reduction, Socio-cultural Pluralism, and Post-Modern Diversity for Identity and ‘Truth’ Insecurity of Knowing and Irresolvable Otherness as Affirmations of Individuality and Egalitarian Ethics

Of Power and Its Deployment in Social Structures and Epistemological Methods: Critiques of Insidious Coercions in the Politics of Discourse

The Interpersonal Equality of Otherness: Confronting the Other as the Self that is not A Singular Subjectivity

Posing a Collectivity of Collective Selfhoods: Decentered Identities, Insecurity of Knowing and Irresolvable Otherness as Affirmations of Individuality and Egalitarian Ethics

Learning in the ‘After Math’ of Modernist Certainty

The Guiding Narrative with/in Incredulity toward Meta-Narratives: A Variousy
Going “Ontology of Our Selves”

Becoming the Complex Differentiations of Modernism: Perspectivalism and Concurrent Consciousnesses

Being In/Between Traditional Continuities, Systematic Structure, and Complex Understandings:
Learning through Radial Constellations of Meaning rather than Hierarchies Alone

Teaching Through Post-Modernist Perspectives

Presenting Analytical Reflection without Reducing Its Differentiations to Certainties
Attending to Post-Modernist Individuations: Facilitating Complex Self-Articulation Enabling Competence without Absolute Convictions

Educational Authority in Post-modern Status: What Basis for Asserting Competency in Teaching and Power over Students?

The Discipline of Multi-Disciplinary Knowing: The Tradition of Poly-Traditionalism

Chapter 7

Re-articulating Educational Emphasis in Schoolings:

Thoughts on Orienting Schoolings More Toward Diversifying Individual Sense Abilities, Their Particular Intellectual Characters, and Their Expressive Responsibilities In Service to Pluralistic Egalitarian Society

A Deceptively Simple Proposal: Priority for Self Reflective Complexity and the Reactions of Status Quo Mentality

The Educative Quandary of Politically Liberal, Pluralistic Society: How to Educate Each so that the Many Can Cohere as Some Multiple One?

Schooling as Social Reproduction: How to ‘Produce’ Autonomous Individuals Committed to Collective Society?

Individualism and the Constitution of Responsible Democratic Citizenship: How to Promote Self-governance by Autonomous Individual Selves in Pluralistic Political Context?

Negotiating Competitive Conflict and Hierarchical Dominations: How to Promote Entrepreneurial Individuality and Relational Pluralism for the Sake of Complimentary Diversity?

Posing Reasonably Meaningful Narratives for Self-Knowing and Social Purpose: How to Motivate both Personal Efforts to Individuate and Individualistic Persons to Co-operate? Social Pluralism and Compulsory Schooling: How to Organize and Enforce Individualized Diversity?

Re-forming Notions of Educational Reform in Relation to Self-Complexity

Re-contexting the What, and How of Schooling Selfhood by Prioritizing the Why of Educating Complexity Variously

Educating Honestly: Overtly Admitting Contrasting Motives, Methods, and Purposes into Schooling

Educating Variousness: Teaching to Provoke A Broad Spectrum of Sense Abilities and Intelligences Engaged in Varied Epistemological Modalities

Educating Schooling: Diversifying the Effects of Schooling Methods through Complexity of Attitude and Context

Educating Interdisciplinarity: Preserving and Correlating Disciplinary Differentiations as Concurrently Valid Modalities of Knowing

Educating Complexity: ‘Leading Forth’ Self, Intellectual, and Social Complexity by Concept, Experience and Example

Educating Equitably: Teaching to the Individual in Relation to Realities of Socio-economic Inequity and Disparate Personal Capacities

Educating Ethicality: Associating Motive for Inter-personal Ethics with Complex Intra-personal Self-interests

Educating Reflectivity: Inspiring Diverse Capacity for Complex Reflection Upon Assumptions of Identity, Reason, and Reality

Educating Expressivity: Articulating Thought, Feeling, and Experience Through Diverse Creative Modalities

Educating Spontaneity: Cultivating Inventive Initiative and Entrepreneurial Self Assertion

Educating Narrativity: Learning to Tell Inclusive Stories of Pluralistic Personal and Social Purpose

Educating Effectively: The ‘Economy’ of Emphasizing Individuating Learning within Social Context

Educating Maturity: Acknowledging Educational Schooling as Psychologically Initiatory Cultural Ritual

Taking Adult Responsibility for Inducing Educational Initiation of Complexly Response Able Egoic Self<>Self Relations

Educating the Life Course: Addressing the On-Going of Learning about Variousness of Self and Others within Relational Diversity

Confronting the ‘Long Childhood’ of the Human Self: Why such an Extenuated Psycho-Somatic Development?

‘Primary’ Education as Concurrent Sense Ability Enhancement of Individual Character and Intelligences

‘Middle Schooling’ as Educational Transition in Preparation for Adolescent Initiation into Analytical Reflection

‘Secondary’ Education as Initiatory Induction into Analytical Reasoning in Diversified Disciplines and Its Consciously Reflective Applications for Complex Knowing

‘Higher’ Education as Refinement of Knowledge, Analytical Methodology, and Expressive Capacity

Appropriate to Individual Character
Adulthood's On-going Educations: Leading by Continuing to Assist in Leading Out Each Other's Complexities of Expression and Reflection

Prologue:
On Becoming the Educators of Our Selves Becoming Their Selves, Among Others